Staying...

Contd.onPage 1
At first glance people think this will only make them to do ursure. It doesn't. It makes you look concerned that you give an appropriate response. It also gives the questioner an opportunity to rephrase and ask a question that is more on point. Remember, the questioner may well have just "thought on his or her

WANTED AIR CONDITIONING TECHNICIAN

We require for immediate employment an energe AC Technician with experience in industrial and centr Please apply by 10th March 2010

Delivery Rider

More than 18 years Driving licence

18-30 years

G.C.E. (O.L)

free of charge

Please send your applications.

The General Manager Koolair (Pvt.) Ltd. 220, High Level Road Kirulapone, Colombo 6 E-mail: powereal@is Following vacancies are to be filled in Gamma Pizza Hut

Crew Member (Male/Female)

Your are entitled for Bonus once in 3 months !!! Attractive salary, Food, Transport facilities, uniforms

Dharshana: 0117500600, 0117500631

Email: darshana@gamma.lk

Address: 321/A, Union Place, Colombo 2.

feet' to ask the question, so when you give them a second chance, the question may well be better articulated and clearer to all. By asking to have the question repeated you also get another opportunity to assess the intentions of the questioner. If it is more specific or better word-ed, chances are the person really wants to learn more. If the repeated question is more aggressive than the first one, then you know the person is more interested in making you unconfortable than anything else. When that's the case, the next tip comes in very handy.

anyning less. Viriet intals are case, the next upcomes in very handry.

4. Use Stall Tactics
Sometimes you need more time to get your thoughts straight and calm yourself down enough to make a clear reply. The last thing you want to do is blurt out the first thing that comes to your mind.
Often this is a defensive comment that only makes wouldow insergue and enviror stafts then profifed. you look insecure and anxious rather than confident and composed.

GAMMA You are Wanted !!

on customers in order to make sure they have a con-on customers in order to make sure they have a continued positive experience during the expansion?" Narrow the focus. Here, you ask a question of your own to not only clarify, but to bring the question down to a manageable scope. "You're interested in hearing how I've considered customer impacts. What impacts are you most interested in hearing how I've considered customer impacts. What impacts are you most interested in: product availability or instore service?" Ask for clarification. Again, this will force the questioner to be more specific and hopefully get more to a specific point. "When you say you want to know how I've analyzed customer impacts, do you mean you want a detailed analysis or a list of the tools and methods I used?" Ask for a definition. Jargon and specific terminology may present a problem for you. Ask to have words and ideas clarified to ensure you are talking about the same thing.

5. Use Silence to your Advantage

We are conditioned to believe that silence i We are conditioned to believe that sience is uncomfortable. However, if you use it sparingly, it communicates that you are in control of your thoughts and confident in your ability to answer expertly. When you rush to answer you also typical-ly rush your words. Pausing to collect your thoughts tells your brain to slow everything down.

6. Stick to One Point and One Supporting Piece of Information There's a high risk that, under presure, you'll answer a question with either too much or too little information. If you give too short an answer, you risk letting the conversation slip into interrogation mode. [You'll get another question, and the questioner will be firmly in control of how the file into interogation mode, fou'll get another question, and the questioner will be firmly in control of how the diagram of the growth of the colong, you risk losing people's interest colong, you risk losing people's interest coming across as bening, or girrent, away things that are better left unsaid. Remember, you aren't being asked to give a speech on the subject. The questioner wants to know something, Re and give them an answer, with just enou ing information.

and give them an answer, with just enough supporting information.

This technique gives you focus. Rather than trying to tie together all the ideas that are running through your head, when you pick one main point and one supporting fact, you allow yourself to answer accurately and assuredly.

The

Tip:
If you don't know the answer, say so. There is no point trying to make something up. You will end up looking foolish and this will lower your confidence when you need to think on your feet in the future. There is (usually) nothing wrong with not knowing something. Simply make sure you follow up as soon as possible afterwards with a researched answer.

7. Prepare some "what ifs"

With a bit of forethought, it's often possible to predict the types of questions you might be asked, so you can prepare and rehearse some answers to so you can prepare and rehearse some answers to questions that might come your way. Let's say you are presenting the monthly sales figures to your management team. The chances are your report will cover most of the obvious questions that the management team might have, but what other questions might you predict? What's different about this month? What new questions might be asked? How would you respond? What additional information might you need to have to hand to sup-nort more defailed nuestions? port more detailed questions?

port more detailed questions? In particular, spend some time brainstorming the most difficult questions that people might ask, and preparing and rehearsing good answers to them.

8. Practice Clear Delivery
How you say something is almost as important as what you say, if you mumble or use "umm" or "ah" between every second word, confidence in

VACANCY

BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT/PR LADY EXECUTIVE

company specialising in TV Productions & Photograph requires a personable lady capable of independently generating business & maintaining goodwill. Sales / Marketing experience would be an advantage. Fluent English is a must. Working hours are flexible. Part time would also be considered. please e mail resume before the 10th of March 2010 to ladyexec1pr@yahoo.com

what you are saying plummets. Whenever you speaking with people, make a point to practice these key oration skills

Speak in a strong voice. (Don't confuse strong splear in a strong voice. Don't comuse strong with loud!)

Use pauses strategically to emphasize a point or slow yourself down Vary your tone and pay attention to how your message will be perceived given the intonation you use Use eye contact appropriate by Pay attention to your grammar Use the level of formality that is appropriate to the situation.

9. Summarize and Stop
When you were reapposed with a mirket pumpage.

9. Summarize and Stop
Wrap up your response with a quick summary statement. After that, resist adding more information. There may well be silence after your summary.
Don't make the common mistake of filling the silence with more information! This is the time when other people are adsorbing the information you have given. If you persist with more information, you may end up causing confusion and undoing the great work you've already done in delivering your response.

your response.

Use words to indicate you are summarizing (i.e. "in conclusion, "finally") or briefly restate the question and your answer. So - what did do to analyze customer impacts? I reviewed the Dallas case files in detail, and prepared a "What if" analysis for our own situation."

Key points: No one enjoys being putting on the spot or No one enjoys being putting on the spot or answering questions that you aren't fully expecting. The uncertainty can be stressful. That stress does-n't need to be unmanageable and you can think on your feet if you remember the strategies we just discussed. Essentially, thinking no your feet means staying in control of the situation. Ask questions, buy time for yourself, and remember to stick to one point and make that one point count. When you are able to zoom in on the able to zoom in on the key areas of concern expert and you impress your audience, and your-self, with your confi-dence and poise. mindtools.com

Jeddah KSA General English Teacher

(Male Up to 40 years → Free Process → No Placement Fee

- certification
 5 years of English teaching experience.
 Degree in Education and Gulf experience will be considered as an asset.
 Must be well versed with computer usage and ability to conduct multimedia training (added value)
 A competitive Salary Package. (SR 2500 to 3500)
 Free accommodation and medical.
 Highly professional work environment.
 Two years renewable contract.
 All other terms and conditions will be as stipulated by the SLBFE.

Please Contact: Azher: 0777 420643

CROWN RECRUITING AGENCY (PRIVATE) LIMITED (SLBFE License No. 1648) 29/8, Stafford Avenue, Kirullapone, Colombo 6.

Competitives Rates | High Caliber Readership | Free Web Advertising

Aravinda - 0773 219 777 Nigel - 0772385513 Hemantha - 0773 427 846 Madu - 0772 930 795

Walk in Interview

Should be creative, should have experience in a star class hotel & proven track record in pastry & bakery work. Good knowledge in preparation of variety of food items & pastries essential. Interview @ 10.30a.m.

- General Manager (Manager Operations)
- Should have over 5 years experience & proven track record. Should be good in English. Interview @ 9.30a.m. Pastry Chefs (Male)
- Restaurant supervisor (Male / Female)
- Accounts Assistant cum Cashier (Female)
- ► Customer Care Executives (Male /Female)
- Kitchen Helpers / Restaurant Helpers

Waiters & Waitresses

Walk in interviews are held at WISDOM TRAINER AUDITORIUM No. 217 A, Stanley Thilakaratne Mawatha on 11th Thursday March 2010.

Please be ready to hand over your CV with recently taken photograph and all other professional academic certificates.

TIMES