Trump lashes out at China, vows quick response

WASHINGTON, Aug23 (AFP) - US President Donald Trump has lashed out at Beijing, vowing a quick response to China's announcement of new tariffs and ordering American companies to leave

The blistering Twitter screed called into doubt chances for a quick resolution to the escalating trade war between the world's economic superpowers, which by the end of the year will cover nearly all imports and exports exchanged between the two countries.

"We don't need China and, frankly, would be far... better off without them, Trump tweeted.

The attack came with Trump expected to ruffle feathers in France at the weekend meeting of the G7 grouping of rich nations, with tensions mounting between Trump and the Europeans, Canada and Japan over trade tariffs.

The friction already has slowed US growth and undercut the global economy, and the threat of a deterioration sent stock markets falling sharply.

The Dow lost more than 500 points from its peak, and was two percent down on Thursday's close in early afternoon trading. The German DAX lost more than one percent but London's FTSE gained ground.

"Our Country has lost, stupidly, Trillions of Dollars with China over many years. They have stolen our Intellectual Property at a rate of Hundreds of Billions of Dollars a year, & they want to continue. I won't let that happen!," Trump tweeted.

"Our great American companies are hereby ordered to immediately start looking for an alternative to China, including bringing... your companies HOME and making your products in the USA." It is unclear under what authority Trump could demand private companies alter their production.

On Friday, China announced it would hit US soybeans, lobsters, peanut butter and other imports worth $75 billion with new tariffs in retaliation for Washington's latest round of punitive duties that take effect in two rounds, September 1 and December 15.

"I will be responding to China's Tariffs this afternoon. This is a GREAT opportunity for the United States," he tweeted.

China's retaliation

But the influential US Chamber of Commerce urged the two sides to return to the negotiating table to find a solution.

"While we share the president's frustration, we believe that continued, constructive engagement is the right way forward," Myron Brilliant, the business group's head of international affairs, said in a statement.

"Time is of the essence. We do not want to see a further deterioration of US-China relations." And the National Retail Federation said it was "unrealistic" to expect American retailers to move out of the world's second largest economy.

China's punitive tariffs of five to 10 percent will apply to 5,078 US items, timed to start in tandem with the new US duties on September 1 and December 15, China's state council tariff office said.

Beijing also announced it would reimpose a 25 percent tariff on US autos and a five percent tariff on auto parts, also starting December 15. China had lifted those tariffs earlier this year as a goodwill measure while trade talks were

Trump already imposed steep tariffs on $250 billion in Chinese goods, with a further $300 billion in imports targeted in Beijing has hit back with duties on around $110 billion of US goods -- or nearly all of the $120 billion worth of American goods it imported last year.

Some of those goods will now have their tariff rates raised even further.

China's commerce ministry said it will hit American frozen lobster, frozen chicken feet, peanut butter and 914 other goods with new 10 percent punitive tariffs starting September 1.

Soybeans, crude oil and other energy goods face 5 percent tariffs.

The US actions "have led to the continuous escalation of China-US economic and trade frictions, violating the consensus reached by the two heads of state in Argentina and the consensus reached in Osaka," China's State Council Tariff Commission Office said in a statement.

'China's adoption of punitive tariff measures is forced under the pressure of US unilateralism and trade protectionism," the office said.

US-made mango juice, electric buses and chemical products face 10 percent duties come mid-December while smaller aircraft, hand pumps and bearings will be hit with 5 percent taxes.

Thousands march in Hong Kong; China frees UK mission worker

HONG KONG, Aug 24 (Reuters) - Hong Kong shut four subway stations to head off an anti-government protest in a gritty industrial district on Saturday but thousands marched anyway as China released a British consulate staffer whose detention had helped fuel tension.

The offshore airport and the roads and railways leading to it were operating normally despite plans by protesters to implement a "stress test" of transport links and disrupt traffic after weeks of unrest in the Chinese-ruled city

Authorities had taken out a court order to prevent demonstrations at the airport, which was forced to close for part of last week after protesters thronged the main terminal for several days, grounding around 1,000 flights and occasionally clashing with police.

The MTR subway stations were closed around Kwun Tong, a densely populated area on the east of the Kowloon peninsula. but thousands packed the streets, most carrying umbrellas against the sun despite hazy skies in the former British colonv.

Some protesters sat on the ground to stop metal gates closing Kwun Tong station itself as others berated staff for shutting down the trains.

"Shame on the MTR," some shouted. Others complained about increased surveillance. Station shops were closed.

The protests, which began as opposition to a now-suspended bill that would have allowed suspects to be extradited to mainland China, have swelled into wider calls for democracy, plunging the city into an unprecedented crisis and posing a direct challenge for Communist Party leaders in Beijing.

Demonstrators say they are fighting the erosion of the "one country, two systems" arrangement that enshrines a high degree of autonomy for Hong Kong since it was handed back from British to Chinese rule

British consulate worker Simon Cheng was detained for 15 days for violating public security management regulations, police in Shenzhen, across the border from Hong Kong, said on their Twitter-like Weibo account.

Police said Cheng was released as scheduled on Saturday and that his legal rights and interests had been observed. They also said Cheng had confessed to accusations against him, a commonly used comment by Chinese police, even though Cheng was not given a chance to defend himself in court.

Cheng had now returned to Hong Kong, his family said on his Facebook page.

No details were given of his detention, with the Facebook post asking the "media and friends to give them some time and space, and we will explain more later".
